1925-26 GRADES IS ANNOUNCED

Engineers Are Given 31 Per Cent "A's"; Percentage for Entire University Is 19.2 for Last Semester

AG COLLEGE IS SECOND

Order of Precedence Is Similar to That of the Year 1924-1925

Of the 12,584 grades received by the students of the university during the second semester of last year, 19.2 per cent were A's and 34.2 per cent were B's, according to the report of dis-tribution of grades just given out by the registrar's office. The number of grades received by students for the second semester of the 1924-24 session was 12,466 and of that number 18.6 per cent were A's and 34.2 per cent were B's.

The College of Engineering again heads the list of colleges in percentage of A's given, 31 per cent of all the marks given in that college being of the highest rank. The other five colleges listed in order of percentages of A's given are: College of Agricul-ture 20.8 per cent; College of Educa-tion, 20 per cent; College of Arts and Sciences, 16.7 per cent; College of Commerce, 11.9 per cent; and College of Law 11.4 per cent.

It is interesting to note in com paring this report with the one issued for the second semester of last year that the colleges for that year were arranged in exactly the same order in percentages of A's given. Last year the percentage of A's made in the College of Engineering was 30.8; the College of Agriculture, 23.7; College of Education, 21.6; College of Arts and Sciences, 15.1; and College of Law, 9.5 per cent.

ON FACULTY 25 YEARS

Attended by their devoted children and congratulated by hundreds of friends, Prof. Charles J. Norwood and Mrs. Norwood celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding receiving informally at their home on Aylesford Place, Tuesday afternoon and with a family dinner at 6 o'clock. In the evening the faculty of the university, with which Professor Noruniversity, with which Professor Nor-wood has been connected for 25 years, entertained with a reception at Pat-terson hall in honor of the jubilarians. Gifts of rare beauty and purses of gold carried with them the hearty good wishes of the friends of a life time. Such spoken greetings as come only from the lips of those whose hearts dictate the sentiments accompanied gorgeous flowers and love and affection in which the honored guests are held. casion came to a close.

On October 5, in the year of 1876, six miles from Manchester in Clay county, Sarah E. White took Charles J. Norwood "for better or for worse" in the holy bonds of wedlock and began with him the journey on the road of married life. Fifty years later, October 5, in the year 1926, they looked back and recalled the many incidents that have made those years cidents that have made those years replete with memories, hallowed and cherished while life lasts.

Have Been of Service Few citizens of Lexington have meant to the community what Mr. and Mrs. Norwood have meant. Theirs have been lives of unselfish service; theirs have been ideals that knew no limitation short of perfection and efforts which started prayerfully, ending always in accomplishment. On the occasion of their jubilee, salutations and greetings bore evidences of the success which has attended the un-selfish interest they have shown in the welfare of their fellowman.

To Give Cold Vaccine

Students Urged To Avail Them-selves of Preventive Treatment at Once

Because of prevalency of colds during the month of October it has been requested by the department of hygiene of the university that all persons who are very susceptible to them report to the dispensary at once for vaccination. Statistics compiled by doctors at the dispensary prove that by far the largest number of cases coming under their observation are for infectoins of the upper respiratory tract, colds and the like. The statistics also show that the months of October and March are the ones in which there was the greatest incidence of these diseases

To control or actually prevent colds is a very praise-worthy under-taking and the students should cooperate with the department of hygiene in their effort to keep the stu-dents in good health.

Tests in the department last year students treated with this vaccine got show that about 50 per cent of the very good results according to their own estimate of the treatment.

Strong representatives of two of the mightiest football conferences of the United States will clash tomorrow when the Kentucky Wildcats, of the Southern conference, and Indiana University, of the Western Conference, meet at Bloomington in one of the most crucial football contests to be played in the mid-west. Indiana Is Good

For the last four years Indiana has served as a stepping stone for Big Ten teams and has had little difficulty in finishing the season well down in the Western Conference standing. But conditions have changed at the coach, Pat Page, was brought from Butler to build a winning football eleven. And from all reports Page has succeeded and is presenting to Indiana this year the best team that they have seen for years. Alumni Office to Seek Pictures for Gallery

Old Timers Asked for Photos of Teams, Classes and Students

A move is to be started within the next few weeks to obtain a collection of pictures both old and new that will University of Kentucky. This col-lection of pictures is to be placed in the Alumni office at the university and arranged in chronological order in a cabinet, that will be open always for

All pictures of old athletic teams student groups, student activities and university officials will be sought in this move for the establishment of the picture gallery. The older the pictures the better they will suit the purpose. Photographs of the uni-versity, students and teams of the last few years are available here at the university and these will be easily obtained. However, there are a great number of teams, student bodies, and classes that have been gone from the university for years and it is for pictures of these that an especial effort will be made.

Alumni who have copies of old pictures can greatly aid this move by lending to this office the copies of any pictures that they may have. The best of care will be taken of the pictures in case of a loan and they will be returned to the owner in the sam ondition that they are received.

This collection will be of great in-terest to all Alumni who visit the uniersity as well as to the students. Every Alumni is called on to assist this office in the obtaining of these Prospects for a brilliantly successful season took on a rosy hue at the university following Saturday's game. Granted that a little more practice is needed to polish and smooth the actions of the team, this is a relatively small matter which will be taken care of in this week's practices. The team showed up exceptionally well Saturday for an opening game and old-timers are already predicting great things for the '26 Wildcats-to all appearances the mightiest eleven that has represented the university for many years.

This year the university enters upon the football season with the most difficult schedule, probably, it has a representative man, selected from a ever faced. Great opportunities lie before the school to gain wide recognition in athletic circles.

And as the team goes forth to conquest on home field and foreign, the student body will play no little part in the combats. Cheering, "rooting," loyal student support is an important ingredient in the composition of a winning team. University of Kentucky students have always supported their teams, and this year in the desperate struggle with mighty opponents, each member of the university team will fight ever harder because of the knowledge that with him always is the whole-hearted support of his college mates, win or lose.

DESERVED RECOGNITION

Dean Anderson of the College of Engineering has called attention of The Kernel to a paper read by Dr. J. E. Rush, head of the department of hygiene and public health, before the last meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers and which the society has had reprinted and distributed through-

The paper read by Doctor Rush is entitled "A Rational Basis for Ventilation" and immediately upon its publication it attracted nation-wide interest among engineers and public health officials.

The Kernel has for some time watched with interest the work of Doctor Rush. Not only has he worked zealously in improving his department at the university, but he has always been willing, indeed eager, to do anything that lay in his power to advance the health interests of the community. It is, therefore, with sincere pleasure that The Kernel now notes the recognition and honor that has come to Doctor Rush through his paper

A REGISTER OF ACHIEVEMENTS

Beginning with the 1927-28 session, the University of Kentucky will offer a curriculum leading to the awarding of the degree of doctor of philosophy to those who successfully complete it. The establishment of such a course of study was authorized at the last meeting of the board of trustees and details pertaining to such establishment are now being planned.

The board of trustees is to be heartily commended for the action they have taken in thus advancing the university academically. It should and will be a matter of pride to faculty and students to be connected with the only university in Kentucky and one of the four institutions in the whole South to award the much-coveted Ph. D. degree.

As this latest step of advancement is entered in the ever-growing register of its achievements, it is a source of distinct pleasure for those who have the interests of the institution deeply implanted in their hearts to glance over the book and note the number and importance of the achievements entered thereon in the past two or three years.

Seldom a week goes by that at least one such achieve ment is not chronicled thereon and such ones have been e the past few years as have ed for years by university officials.

The establishment of a Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the university, the housing of the Law college in its own modern building, the recognition by the war department of the university as a "distinguished university" in matters military, the construction of new buildings, offering of additional courses of study, and other improvements too many to enumerate here, climaxed by this latest step of progress in the awarding of the Ph. D. degree, tell the story of progress,

Truly the university is "coming into its own." . . . .

"WELL DONE"

A significant social event of the current sessio was the celebration on Tuesday evening by faculty and other university folk, of the golden anniversary of the wedding of Dr. C. J. Norwood and Mrs. Norwood.

The occasion was one in which expressions of affection were numerous and sincere from those whose privilege it has been to know and associate with this charming couple in the many years that Dr. Norwood has been connected with the university.

In season and out of season through the years that have marked his connection with the University of Kentucky, Dr. Norwood has not let pass one opportunity to disclose his perfect loyalty to the institution, nor has he failed to stamp the impression of his outstanding character on the young men and women who have

> The Report of the Spies This is the first instance in his ory where a party of engineers was sent out to make a survey of a new territory. They did not have the scientific instruments we use today, but they succeeded admirably with the natural tools bestowed upon them > by the Creator. These 12 men were hand-picked, one from each of the 12 tribes, each standpoint of ability, courage, char> acter, citizenship, and judgment. They were sent to study the land of Canaan, and to bring back to the people a report of conditions as they existed there. Their report was to be a true thesis and was to include the topography of the land, its trees, its dimensions, and its inhabitants, including their number, history, industries, religion, mental and physical development, whether war-like or peaceful, their armies, food supplies, implements of warfare, and in a general way, just how hard or easy it would be to overthrow them and take their lands.

Had No Enthusiasm The band went forth, with no great enthusiasm for the project. Moses had commanded this survey and he was old, in his dotage, and inclined to be arbitrary, as they thought. What was needed was a new leader, one who who was abreast of the times. But hey made an investigation after a fashion, each man going his way ac-cording to his ability, and after completing their work, met together to decide upon the sort of report they would bring in. In committee meeting the report was most promising. The land was everything Moses said it was, butand here is the first time in Biblical history where the little-big word "but" in-was it the right time to embark upon such an enterprise? They forgot that they were but a committee of investigators, that they must no editoralize on their thesis, and that the decision of their future actions was in the hands of a Higher Power. So they brought in a discouraging report, the land was fertile, the waters were good, the country rich in possibilities, "but," the inhabitants were war-like, giants, and their civilization and development such, as to make their com nittee seem like grasshoppers both in their own sight and in the sight of

More than 350,000,000 incandescent lamps, with a combined light of nine billion candlepower, make city streets, stores, and homes brighter than ever

A series of G-E adver-tisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

In bungalow or mansion, workshop or factory, dormitory or auditorium, there is no excuse for poor illumination. We have cheaper and better lighting in the electric lamp than ever before; for the dollar that bought 1,115 candlepower-hours of light with the carbon-filament lamps of 1886, now buys 16,200 candlepower-hours of light with the MAZDA lamps.

Not only more light, but correctly applied light, is the order of the day. The electric lamp, with its flameless yet highly concentrated light source, lends itself ideally to reflectors, shades, and screens. It is controlled light-safe light. And illumine tion becomes an exact science.

During college days and in after life, correct lighting must ever be of paramount importance to the college man and woman. Good lighting is the worthy handmaiden of culture and progress.

ROMANY PLANS NEW DEVICES

Lighting and Prompting Features Are Novel and Up-to-Date; Curtain May Be Dropped Three Ways

MISS FOSTER TO DIRECT

Among many new features which will be included in the new Romany lighting system is one which repre ents to the greatest degree the trend in the building of modern playhouses. This theater will be equipped with a system of lighting known as eclectic which has been used with great suc-cess in modern European theaters. Professor Sax and John Tigert, former electrician of the Romany, were singularly fortunate in being shown through the Burg theater in Vienna, of which Max Reinhardt is director. The magnificient produc-tion, "Peer Gyn" was on, and the entire nine scenes were run through by the stage manager, so that Pro-fessor Sax and Mr. Tigert might have fessor Sax and Mr. Tigert might have an opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with the apparatus used there. They were also shown through the famous Art theater in Rome, whose director is the well known Lingo Perendella, where they observed the various apparatus for lighting and the acousticon.

Unusual Lighting System

In the Romany, the dimer system will control all lights on the stage. Batteries of small spotlights can be

Batteries of small spotlights can be directed on any part or parts of the stage, while the rest of it can be kept in any degree of darkness or light desired. Through these, faint beams of light strike the players from several sources, thus doing away with objectionable shadows. Other lights, indirectly reflected from ground glass mirrors or satin aluminum plates will produce a soft glow, in which one tone is dissolved into another. Batteries of small spotlights can be which one tone is dissolved into another. This same system with rearrangement is capable of produc-ing strong lights and darks, when Rembrandtesque effects are desired. Most of the lights on the stage are to be projected from the loft over will be able to see directly, or through mirrors, all parts of the stage and the effects obtained. In most American theaters the electrician is in doubt about this. The lights in the auditorium of the theater will have for their shades, large masks fashioned from wrought iron.

Curtain Works in Three Ways
The new Romany curtain is planned along novel lines. It will be possible for this curtain to open or close in three entirely different ways. It may be drawn up and lowered as in the ordinary theater, drawn open or closed as in the former Romany, or be draped from the corner. The advantages of the different methods used in closing, are that in some planned that the curtain be dropped instantly in what is known as the "quick drop." Others require a slow curtain, and at times the curtain fall should reveal one character, oblit-erating all other actors, for which the curtain undraped in folds from ne corners is ideal.

Prompting Inaudible to Audience

The prompting always an import ant feature of every theater, will be done by a device which is an entirely new project, and has never before been used on any stage. The prompter will be seated under the stage, so as to be able to observe all parts of the stage through a series of mirrors. He will prompt by reading the lines into a dictograph which will be furnished by a triplicate de-vice hidden in various of the stage properties at three points on the plat-form, by means of which the actors can clearly hear the prompting while it is inaudible to the audience.

The acoustics of the Romany are arranged with non-resonant though they catch the sounds fro the stage, so that a whisper there will be carried with perfect clarity to the auditorium, cause no echo in the

The latest American Little Theaters are very much in advance of either the English or older European ones, in the matter of equipment and fix-tures, especially as regards lighting and stage craft in general. The Romany management, with Miss Dunster-Duncan Foster as managingdirector under Professor Sax, is do-ing all in its power to provide for the students and people of Lexington a modern, unique theater, which will have for its attractions such productions as will be of interest and be fit to them.

Last fall Dartmouth kept two teams working for an hour every practice season, just perfecting those three elements of the forward pass (and incidently perfecting the defense, for when Team A was passing Team B was trying to brak the passes up). Our open game was effective because we spent so much time on every detail

Let's see what that first element neans-coolness and skill in getting the ball off. There's just one thing that will make a good forward passer of a fellow, and that's practice—a lot of it! The boy who wants to learn to pass must spend some time in the spring, and some more in the summer, on his passing. He might as well do some indoor work in the winter, too. "Red" Grange taught himself to pass by hard practice all through one sum-

The first thing to learn is the right ay to hold the ball. The grip I've found most successful is one with my finger-tips across the laces of the ball, my thumb below and toward the rear when my arm is drawn pack for a pass, the ball is just about balanced in right spot.

In spring practice at Dartmouth we carbolle at targets with

In either case the pass itself is bout the same. A football is thrown a good deal like a baseball—with a fast, powerful overarm motion which propels the pigskin with very little young passers who used a low side-arm throw—and could not figure why so many of their passes were blocked! across the lacing, give it the even spin that is so important.

Coolness—that means throwing the ball when you are ready, not letting the other fellows rush you into bad throws, making up your mind just where you want to send it. Of course, opposing forwards. Coolness is another thing that comes of practice and experience.

And it works right in with the sec-

sed to throw footballs at targets with holes in the center. In the summer work I used to do to get in condition

By this, however, we are not pre-dicting that Kentucky will have a world-beating football team this year. happen and let them turn out as they may. The Crimson Tide must not be as weak as most everybody in these parts thought for. The secret? Could it possibly be Wallace Wade, who was refused a coaching offer at the University of Kentucky?

We cannot help but admire the bility of Waddell and Franklin, su stitute ends, who last Saturday tore all-fire out of Maryville's backfield every time they started around end and sometimes caught them flat-floot-ed before they even got started on their ground gaining journies. Suftheir ground gaining journies. Suffice to say, this revelation was more than pleasing to Coach Murphy who now has four ends—Schulte and Gilb being the other two—who are capable of taking care of their positions most any old time. We might add that the former were not boxed once during the entire time they saw action and this is something to say about two boys who are playing their first varsity ball.

We had just about forgotten the freshmen, who open their 1926 season with Vanderbilt Rats a week from tomorrow. Many and many an argument will be settled by this game, too The Kittens are not to be sneezed at this year and some line on the ability which they are supposed to have will be glesned from the opening fray. Most everybody is of the opinion that Irvine Jeffries was always just about two thinks ahead of any other quarterback he ever met in his high school games—and he met the best in the linited States—and somehow we have United States—and somehow we have a hunch that he will be just about two touchdowns ahead of his opponents after everything has been settled

In regard to this pass rule, a five ard penalty is placed on a second and third incompleted pass within the same series of downs, except on the fourth down when the ball goes to the opponents. But this will not affect the game seriously at all. It forward passes; it does not penalize completed forward passes, either behind the line of scrimmage or beyond the line of scrimmage; it does not seriously affect the strategy of the adds slightly to it.

The worst which can happen to any team that makes three incompleted forward passes on the first, second and third downs will be to kick on and third downs will be to kick on fourth down from a point ten yards farther back than when the ball was first put into play, which is not an excessive penalty for the use of such tactics. Kentucky's attack was not hampered the least bit by the thought of the new rule, as they went right ahead to make gains on the first try which they made at flipping the ball with the result of the Rose Poly game Saturday. The score, 31 to 3, would indicate that the Tigers are not a 50 point team as the Scott county op-imists think for. They will learn with experience that playing fresh-man and varsity football are two en-tirely different things. Of course,
